Klan War Looms Here as a Possibility When Burgess Says He Will Stop Meeting

TOWN GENEROUS TO THE JAPANESE

Almost Half of County's Quota of $2,000 Was Raised in Gettysburg.

Almost half of Adams county's quota of $2,000 for the Japanese relief fund was subscribed by residents of Gettysburg, according to figures made public this morning by Miss Margaret McMillan, secretary of the local Red Cross organization.

Gettysburg's bit toward the county's quota was $942.46, divided as follows: from churches, $366.22; from personal contributions, $398.45; and from organizations, $177.79.

Before the drive for $2,000 began in Gettysburg and Adams county, officials in charge of the campaign assigned a certain quota of the $2,000 to each community in Adams county. Gettysburg's share was placed at $500. Most of the communities subscribed their quotas.

Following is a list of the amounts contributed to the Japanese relief fund by towns, communities and churches in Adams county:

Abbotstown, $48.56; Arendtsville, $147.80; Aspers Lutheran church, $11; Benderville, $29.50; Biglerville, $90.66; Bonneville, $15; Buchanan Valley, $12.50; Cashtown and Flohr's church, $33.33; East Berlin, $47.16; Fairfield and Lower Marsh Creek church, $106.26; Littlestown, $161.45; McKnightstown, $23.58; Menallen Monthly of Friends and Flora Dale, $88.75; Mt. Joy, $72.35; New Oxford, $183.90; Orrtranna, $5; Peach Glen, $56.77; Table Rock, $5, and York Springs, $35.

Although the county's quota of $2,000 has been reached, more than $100 has been oversubscribed in Gettysburg and Adams county. The total amount collected to date is $2,110.41. Amounts acknowledged this morning by those in charge of the drive are: $67.40, New Oxford Lutheran church; $8 additional, New Oxford Methodist Episcopal church; $2.50 additional, Peach Glen; $10 additional, Christ Lutheran church, Gettysburg; $15 additional, Menallen Monthly of Friends, and $15, personal contributions.

It is pointed out by Miss McMillan that although the county's quota has been reached, all subscriptions received will be forwarded immediately to the division headquarters at Washington, since the nation's minimum quota of $5,000,000 has already been spent and much more is needed to aid the stricken Japanese.

FIND MARKET ABUNDANT

Buyers Found No Trouble Filling All Their Wants.

Between 50 and 60 hucksters attended the over-abundant session of curb market this morning. Buyers found no trouble filling any of their wants for fruits, vegetables and fresh pork products. One sure sign that frosts have occurred in Adams county and that fall is "just one leap ahead" was the fact that chinquapins made their initial appearance, selling at five cents a glass. The dealer who offered the nuts for sale was cleaned out of thirteen quarts. Prices of most offerings were firm, although shading occurred in many parts of the list as the market drew near its close.

Gathering of Klansmen and Their Friends Scheduled For Monday Evening, it is Learned; Pittsburgh Minister Likely to Address Meeting, if Held; W. E. Olinger Opposes Hooded Organization.

A Klan war in Gettysburg!

This loomed as a possibility this morning when Burgess William E. Olinger declared he would prohibit a meeting of members of the Ku Klux Klan and their friends called for Monday evening, September 24, at 7:45 o'clock in the lodge rooms of the Patriotic Order Sons of America.

It is learned that a large number of men in Gettysburg during the past week have been handed invitations to attend the coming meeting, which threatens to bare the issue of the Ku Klux Klan in Gettysburg, and open the way for possible hostilities.

SCHOOLS ENTER GARDEN CONTEST

Three Prizes Offered At South Mountain Fair For Displays.

School children of Butler, Franklin and Menallen townships together with those of Biglerville, Arendtsville and Benderville will again compete in the display of garden and field products at the South Mountain Fair on September 25th and 26th.

Last year there were seven schools in the race for cash prizes. According to expectation of George Funt, of Biglerville, R. D., who is in charge of this department, there is every reason to believe the number of entries will be doubled.

Each school is allotted space of three by five feet. Any product of the garden or field is permitted to be exhibited in the group. Cash prizes will be awarded with the following points as basis of award: first, variety; second, arrangement of exhibits, and third, merit of the products.

The first prize will be fifteen dollars in cash. The second prize will be ten dollars and third prize will be five dollars. A consolation prize of $2.50 will be given fourth.

All entries must be placed by 9:00 o'clock on the morning of the first day and be permitted to remain in place until seven o'clock in the evening of the second day. There will be no card or sign indicating the name of the school represented placed on the exhibit until after the award of prizes has been made. The arrangement, collection and display is left entirely to the ingenuity of the teachers and children, any product exhibited, however, must be from the garden, orchard, or field of pupils in the school represented.

There will also be a display of school work of the high schools. To date the Arendtsville Vocational school is the only entry, but last minute efforts are being made to have other high schools display the work of pupils. No prizes are being offered and no awards of any kind will be made in this exhibit. It is purely educational.

There is much interest in the horse shoe pitching contest which will determine the champion of Adams county. This feature will be in charge of Hiram C. Lady, of Arendtsville, and a big gallery of fans is sure to follow the fortunes of the players. Entries may be made on either day of the fair at the headquarters tent or may be made by mail to the director of the contests. The rules have been announced and the important regulations are as follows: Twenty-one points shall constitute a game; shoe nearest peg shall count; no shoe outside of the peg box shall count; a standard shall count two; a ringer, three; more than one standard shall be a tie unless both are made by the same pitcher; the top ringer shall count unless the ringers are made by one pitcher, when they shall count double; distance shall be 42 feet; pegs to be four inches above ground; the boxes shall be sixteen by sixteen inches in the finals and eighteen inches in the preliminaries.

The full program of athletic events has been announced. Tuesday will be devoted to individual contests among the school children while Wednesday will be a day of team contests. Events will begin at one-thirty o'clock on both days. On Tuesday there will be three classes, the 80 pound class, the 100 pound class and the unlimited class. The first two classes are those under sixteen years of age and the last is open to all over sixteen years of age. Dashes, broad (Continued on Second Page)

COUNTY HOME IS SAFE FROM FIRE

Tests Worked Out by Gettysburg Fire Company Friday Night Are Successful.

USE TWO PUMPS IN RELAY

One, Drawing Water From Rock Creek, Leads to Next Engine, Thus Carrying Water 1,900 Feet.

Trial of the plan to relay water through both fire engines from the Rock Creek bridge on the Harrisburg road for a distance of 1,900 feet to the Adams County Home, was made Friday night when both Gettysburg engine crews assembled shortly after 6 o'clock for the attempt under the leadership of Fire Chief James B. Aumen.

Proposal of this method of assuring the County Home of fire protection was the result of discovery of the fact that the water supply at the plug at the Home was entirely inadequate in case of a blaze in the institution.

The method followed Friday night was for the La France engine to take up a position at the bridge on the Harrisburg road, with Arthur E. Hutchison at the pumps. This engine drew water from the creek for a vertical lift of 14 feet, then delivered at the rate of about 350 gallons a minute through 750 feet at a pressure of 160 pounds.

After passing through the 750 feet of hose to the Boyd engine, it was found that the pressure had lost only 10 pounds, the Boyd engine's gauges registering 150 pounds on the intake.

The Boyd, the larger of the two engines and in charge of Joseph Coderi, then added a pump pressure of 100 pounds on the water being delivered by the La France, and was able to deliver this at a pressure of 225 pounds through a 3/4-inch nozzle, still maintaining a capacity of 350 gallons a minute.

The distance from Rock Creek to the County Home is approximately 1,900 feet. It was determined from tests made on the two engines Friday night that water could be delivered by the relay method for a distance of as much as 2,500 feet, and ample pressure and quantity still be maintained to throw a heavy stream entirely over any of the buildings on the grounds of the institution.

The output at the nozzles at 1,900 feet, or the actual distance of the County Home from the creek, is declared to be far greater than when water is taken from the fire plug at the institution.

So far as is known, this method of relaying water from one fire engine to another is original with the Gettysburg Fire Company. The plan was developed following considerable discussion between Chief Aumen and A. E. Hutchison, who has charge of the pumps and engine of the La France truck. The proposal to try the plan in order to assure the County Home of fire protection was made at the last regular meeting of the fire company on September 12.

Early this week, before the opportunity was offered to put the plan into effect here, reports were received of a similar solution of a problem when fire occurred at a residence at Radnor, this State.

In order to secure water to fight the flames, six pieces of apparatus relayed water for two miles from a lake to the flaming residence, thus "stealing the thunder" of the Gettysburg Fire Company.

H. T. Stauffer, administrator of affairs at the County Home, said following the successful conclusion of the tests that he is jubilant over the assurance that no matter what might happen, he now feels safe over the fire hazard at the institution under his care.

BANK MAY PAY 85 CENTS ON DOLLAR

Reorganization Plan at York Institution Considers Settlement.

The plan of reorganization of the York City Bank, as announced by the stockholders committee, is that the City Bank pay depositors of less than $250 in full, and to those of larger holdings would pay eight-five per cent requiring them to take stock at double par for the remaining fifteen per cent.

Because, in the opinion of State Banking Commissioner Peter G. Cameron, the City Bank stockholders reorganization committee headed by F. L. Schneider has failed to demonstrate its ability to effect a reorganization of the bank, the work of reorganizing the institution is to be taken out of the hands of that committee and turned over to the depositors' committee, of which George L. Stallman is chairman. Instructions to turn the reorganization work over to the depositors' committee were received Friday from the State Banking Commissioner by R. P. Ferguson, special deputy in charge of the banks affairs in York.

According to the commissioner's letter, the depositors committee is to be given until November 1 to demonstrate to the department the feasibility of its plan, which will be along the lines followed in the reorganization of the Agricultural Trust Company, of Lancaster. The banking commissioner, in a letter to Mr. Ferguson, said that the attention of the depositors committee should be called to the necessity for prompt and vigorous action.

OFFICIAL COUNT IS NOT YET COMPLETED

Gain of C. C. Smith Over Clayton Hoke Shows Reversal of Figures.

Recount of the ballots cast in Tuesday's primary in the first ward of Gettysburg was completed Friday afternoon by President Judge Donald P. McPherson, Associate Judge E. P. Miller and C. W. Gardner and Marshall Mehner, clerks. Although the recount, which was asked for by Harry W. Stout, president of the first ward election district, because of known errors, is complete, the results have not yet been certified to the county commissioners. Consequently the figures are not available. It is understood, however, that only a slight change came from the official recount.

Official count of the ballots cast in Tuesday's primary, while not quite complete when The Times went to press, had progressed far enough to show that the unofficial figures in at least one important office on the Republican side had been reversed and that Clarence C. Smith, Mount Joy township, had won the nomination over J. Clayton Hoke, Gettysburg, for county treasurer by less than 50 votes. Unofficial returns had indicated the nomination of Hoke. Not including about twenty odd absent voters ballots which remained to be canvassed, Hoke had received 833 and Smith 878 votes, by official count.

Excluding these same absent voters ballots, which will be included in the official count completed by the county commissioners late this afternoon and which will be published complete for both old parties in Monday's Times, the Republican vote officially stood as follows on several of the more important offices for which there were contests:

Judge of the superior court, MacDade, 494; Henderson, 996. Clerk of the courts, Harry J. Gulden, 612; John W. Black, 1017. County commissioners, J. L. Hill, 334; M. A. L. Trostle, 1020; E. G. Lower, 1138; J. F. Taylor, 754. The name of District Attorney Raymond F. Topper was written in for that office by 225 voters. There were no candidates for nomination and Mr. Topper's name, therefore, will appear on the official ballot in the November election as the Republican party's nominee, against John P. Butt, the lone Democratic candidate in the primary.

FOOTBALL GAME OFF

College Team Did Not Go To Westminster For Practice Contest.

The football game scheduled for this afternoon between Gettysburg and Western Maryland Colleges, at Westminster, Maryland, was called off late Friday by the latter institution. In lieu of this game Coach W. W. Wood planned to have two of his strongest squads go through a stiff scrimmage on Nixon Field this afternoon. A return game with Western Maryland College for next Wednesday has also been cancelled.

POOL PAID WITH BALANCE IN BANK

Rev. Harry Daniels Thanks All Who Contributed In Any Way.

NEED MORE FRESH WATER

Well Could be Sunk For Approximately $300. Tank as it Stands Cost Nearly $2700.

Gettysburg's municipal swimming pool is at last completed and paid for and the treasury shows a snug nest egg of almost $100 for further improvements at the Playground's outdoor tank.

Rev. Harry Daniels, pastor of the Gettysburg Methodist Episcopal church, who has been instrumental in securing funds, materials and labor for the construction of the swimming pool, this morning made public a statement of receipts and expenditures in connection with the building of the tank. According to the statement, the sum of $90.86 is still in the treasury for further improvements and additions at the Playground recreation center.

In connection with the balance sheet, Rev. Mr. Daniels, says that he publicly expresses his thanks to every person who contributed funds, materials or labor to the swimming pool project. "It has already proven a blessing to the community and ought to fill a place of much larger usefulness," Rev. Mr. Daniels continued.

"Thanks are especially due the Gettysburg Chamber of Commerce," added Rev. Mr. Daniels, "and the excellent committee appointed by that body to assist in the collection of this money, and to the Rotary Club, which threw its splendid moral support into the movement, and to many other prominent citizens of Gettysburg, who have in so many ways aided this movement." John W. Brehm and William H. Tipton comprised the Chamber of Commerce committee.

While the pool, which is lined with concrete and bordered on all four sides with concrete walks, can serve a long-felt want in the community in its present condition, Rev. Mr. Daniels points out that a larger continuous supply of fresh water is necessary. (Continued on Third Page)

Something to Think About
By F. A. WALKER

KEEPING IN TUNE

IF YOU are not willing to sing in tune with the inspiring music of industry ringing and roaring all about you, there will come upon you the bare and beggarly days which are set apart by the Fates as a pittance for sluggards.

In the strength and buoyancy of youth you may think that you can escape them. There is no fear in your mind, no prompting to be up and doing, no worthy aspiration. To go flitting and sailing about like a butterfly when the air is soft and filled with the fragrance of flowers, is your one desire.

There is pleasure in the world, and you are going to get your share while you have the capabilities to enjoy it. The years call to you with a voice of idle laughter. In your case, they are not made for noble endeavor of hand or brain.

You proudly proclaim your manly or womanly independence.

You assert with emphasis that you will not be subjected to the beck and call of anybody. There is but one that shall say to you "yes" and "nay," and that one is your arrogant, foolish self, out of tune with reason, singing false notes so like the confused souls of Babel that they fill the hearts of your parents with a terror unspeakable.

They implore you to sing in tune. Your answer is a cackle and a strut. It is received with sighs and tears. Thousands of pleading fathers and mothers like yours have waited and waited for a dulcet note, folded their hands in disappointment and gone to sleep.

It is a story as old as the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen, yet young as the budding twigs of spring; true to the tradition of centuries which affirm and reaffirm that parental love, though constant and solicitous to the last, has often been wounded to death by the jarring behavior of the objects of its affection.

You never speak of the discords you have caused. You continue to proceed on your imperious way until the clouds lower about you and your path lies dark and forbidding ahead.

Then in a moment your inclinations change and your heart changes with them. You do your utmost to convey to others your new purpose, but your notes still ring untrue, though you may be doing your best to save a rag of honor at the eleventh hour, unsupported by love.

COMPLETE TEST TO CUT GAS WASTE

Victims of Explosion Had Ended Experiments to Save 500,000.000 Gallons.

Washington, Sept. 22.—The four bureau of standards experts killed in a laboratory explosion Thursday and the five other injured had just completed experiments which are expected to save 500,000,000 gallons of gasoline a year.

In their study of evaporation, bureau officials said Friday, the laboratory force had discovered methods for preventing huge waste from this cause, and had prepared charts of great economic value. The experiments had been proceeding for several months and had just reached the stage of a final report.

Another task recently undertaken by the victims of the explosion, which was the most serious in the history of the bureau, was the testing of the engines of the navy airship ZR-1. In a specially constructed chamber, the motors of the craft were put through a series of experiments, from which data was developed for naval engineers, showing the amount and grade of fuel needed at every foot of altitude up to six miles, which required carburetor adjustments. The air within the laboratory during the experiments was controlled in such a way as to simulate low and high altitudes, while the motors were kept running.

L. L. Lauer, of New Salem, O., who was instantly killed, with Urban J. Cook, of Cincinnati; Stephen M. Lee, of New London, Conn., and James E. Kendig, of Salunga, Pa., who died later, and the five injured men had contributed important services to the bureau.

Secretary Hoover issued a statement Friday saying "the men killed in the accident were martyrs to the experimental work through which science finds its advances toward public usefulness."

"The largest salary received by any of them was $2000 per annum," said Mr. Hoover. "They were, with one exception, university trained men. The maximum that the government may do for their families amounts to less than $50 per month, and this under several limitations."

Secretary Hoover has ordered an investigation of the accident, which officials believe was caused by an accumulation of gas set off by a spark. The exact cause is expected to remain in doubt, however, until the injured have recovered sufficiently to be questioned.

USE BLOODHOUNDS TO TRACE VANDALS

Posse Is Led From Hancock Killing Into Pennsylvania By Dogs.

Bloodhounds were used recently to trace the thieves who sometime Wednesday night killed a steer on the farm of S. Rinehart Cohill, three miles from Hancock, and escaped after cutting large steaks from the hind quarters, leaving the slain steer as mute evidence of their outrage. The trail led across the Pennsylvania State line, four miles from the Cohill farm, three miles to a home in Pennsylvania.

Constable Charles Barnhart, of Hancock, was in charge of the party. The hounds were owned by Sheriff Luther Cannell, of Winchester, Va. He arrived with the dogs at Hancock about noon and he and Constable Barnhart with Deward Apple, a Hancock resident, went to the Cohill farm.

The dogs picked up the trail immediately and set off toward the State line. A number of people were gathered around the slain steer when the officers arrived, and when the hounds set off up the road several hundred indignant neighbors and residents of Hancock kept pace with the searchers in automobile and on foot.

The people at the home where the dogs finally led the officers denied any knowledge of the affair, according to Constable Barnhart. Their names are withheld by him. Barnhart declared last night he is in possession of clues that he thinks will unearth the thieves. An investigation will be made in and around the home where the dogs led the officers.

Mr. Barnhart also declared he was investigating a report that a young man of Hancock borrowed a large butcher knife in Hancock Wednesday and that it had been returned to its owner bloody.

Thirteen steers of the Cohill herd were out on pasture. When rounded up two were missing. One was found mutilated and dead, the other alive. A shotgun had been used to kill the steer during the night.

'BATTLE TO END' GOVERNOR WARNS

Oklahoma Legislators Declare They Will Meet Wednesday Despite Threats.

BRANDED ILLEGAL ACT
Opinion of Action by House Session Backs Threats of Bayonets by Governor Walton and Supporters.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 22.—In answer to queries as to his final stand on the convening of a special session of the lower house of the legislature next Wednesday without his call, Governor Walton Friday made public a statement written by Paul Nesbitt, state highway commissioner and once speaker of the house, holding that the house members have no right to convene themselves.

But legislators seeking the governor's impeachment will convene at noon Wednesday to consider charges that Walton has violated constitutional government, and they say that, if the governor interferes with the meeting, he "acts at his peril."

Governor Walton's legislative enemies are confident, however, that he will not carry out his threat to jail the house members if they attempted to assemble. Since voicing the threat some of the governor's legal advisers have urged him to ignore the session as illegal and without effect. Nevertheless, the threat has not been withdrawn, nor the guards at the state house.

Meanwhile, Governor Walton is gathering strength for a final drive on the Ku Klux Klan, which he blames for the storm that has broken about him.

"The invisible empire shall not pass in this state," was the defiance hurled by the governor.

Admitting the fight was bearing heavily on him, the governor sent out an appeal for funds, asking those who believe in a representative form of government to send contributions to Mrs. Aldrich Blake, Oklahoma City, wife of the executive councillor. Blake now is absent from the state on a mission for the governor.

But Governor Walton was defiant. "I have crossed the Rubicon," he said, "it is a fight to the finish."

He said also that if it became necessary he would arm every man in the state who is opposed to the "invisible empire."

N. C. Hewitt, grand dragon of the Oklahoma realm of the klan, and his associates "have turned the fight over to the klan newspapers and the klan members of the legislature," Governor Walton asserted.

A broadside was turned on the klan by the governor last night, when he released a part of the testimony taken before a military court here, showing that County Attorney J. K. Wright, Sheriff Tom Canner and District Judge G. W. Clark were members in the klan, and detailing charges made by Dr. A. A. Maupin, a dentist, who had quit the organization, telling of the connection of the "invisible empire" with mob violence.

It was Judge Clark who issued the call for a special grand jury to investigate charges that Governor Walton had illegally used state employees to check names on an initiative petition to which he was opposed.

The grand jury was dismissed when the military authorities trained machine guns on the courtroom at the orders of the governor. Governor Walton charges that a "klan judge" and a klan grand jury were attempting to interfere with his war on the "invisible empire."

TELLS OF QUERIES BEFORE WRECK

Station Officer States Many Ships Asked For Bearings.

San Diego, Calif., Sept. 22.—Three radio men from Point Arguello, wireless direction signals of which were disregarded by navigators aboard the United States steamship Delphy when that vessel led the destroyed squadron on the rocks off Honda, California, September 18, were to take the stand at Friday's session of the naval court of inquiry investigating the disaster, in which seven ships were wrecked and twenty-three men perished.

According to the testimony of Lieutenant Laurance F. Blodgett, navigation officer aboard the Delphy, radio compass signals sent out from Point Arguello, indicating that the squadron was still too far north to swing eastward into Santa Barbara channel, were believed inaccurate, and therefore were disregarded by him and the commanding officer.

The log of the Point Arguello radio compass station was also scheduled to be submitted in evidence as a definite record of every message sent or received between noon and midnight of September 8.

Preparations were being completed for an impressive memorial service Sunday in honor of the dead, a service in which 7000 officers and men of the navy and about 3000 civilians are expected to participate, and at which Admiral Robert E. Coontz, commander of the United States fleet, will be the principal speaker.

Lieutenant Commander John M. Ashley, superintendent of communications for the eleventh naval district, produced the log of the station.

No complaints had ever been made to him, as superintendent of communications, that the bearing sent out by Point Arguello station were inaccurate, Ashley said, adding that he was sure if a material error had ever been made he would have been informed of it. Asked if any change in equipment had been made at Point Arguello which might have affected the operation of the station, the witness said that "one of the masts was dropped at noon" and admitted that no inspections or technical adjustments had been made to make sure that the accuracy of the station had not been affected by this incident.

"Was there any confusion in the air which might have led to inaccurate bearings being sent out?" counsel for Captain Edward H. Watson, chief of the destroyer squadron, asked.

"Well, there was an unusual number of ships asking for bearings that night," replied Ashley, "and there appeared to be some confusion in the air."

USED BLACKMAIL AGAINST FATHER

Ward is Named in Plot as Mediator Of Gang.

STATE LOSES ONE POINT
Fails to Prove Revolver Used in Slaying of Marine Belonged to Defendant Now on Trial.

White Plains, N. Y., Sept. 22.—A complaint charging that there was a blackmail plot directed against George S. Ward, father of Walter S. Ward, who is on trial charged with the murder of Clarence Peters, was introduced Friday as evidence by Deputy Attorney General O'Neill. The complaint was signed by James J. Cunningham, the man who once told Sheriff Werner that he knew all the details of the blackmail story.

According to the complaint, threats of moral disgrace were made against the elder Ward by the blackmail gang. The complaint said further that "Walter S. Ward, as prearranged, did transmit the threats to George S. Ward," but that the elder Ward did not act on them. Mr. O'Neill introduced the Cunningham complaint after Sheriff Werner had testified the Wards made no complaint of blackmail to him.

Counsel for the defense further interrogated Frank Cody, New Rochelle chief of police, who testified Thursday that a revolver identified by Ward as one with which Peters threatened to kill him looked very much like a revolver he gave to Ward shortly before the killing.

Cody was asked by counsel for the defense where he had obtained the pistol he gave to Ward. He said he took it from a safe in which there were several old pistols, and that he never had seen the pistol before, admitting he never had an opportunity to become familiar with its appearance.

He testified that before he took the stand Thursday Deputy Attorney General Chambers, who is conducting the prosecution, had asked him if he could make his identification of the pistol more positive.

Ward, in saying he shot Peters in self-defense, produced the pistol in question as one held by Peters in his hand at the time of the shooting.

Sheriff Werner then took the stand and repeated Ward's description of the killing of Peters, as Ward's attorney had told it to him in his home in the presence of Ward and others soon after the slaying.

The witness said the attorney described a meeting between Ward and three men described as Charlie Ross, Jack Rogers and "Pete" (Peters) on the White Plains road the night of the slaying. The three men were in a large automobile and Ward was in his coupe. "Pete" got into the small car with Ward, and drawing a pistol, commanded him to drive on, according to the story. The big car followed.

When they reached the spot where Peters' body was found later, Ward said covered was ordered to get out. While "Pete" was opening the door Ward reached for the revolver, and "Pete" responded by firing at him, the bullet passing through the open window of Ward's car. Ward then grabbed the hand in which "Pete" held his gun and turned it on its owner, shooting him. The other two men fired at Ward and drove away.

PUPILS TO JUDGE AGAIN THIS YEAR

Arendtsville, Biglerville, Littlestown Three-Cornered Fight May be Complicated.

HIGH SCHOOLS INVITED

York Springs, East Berlin, New Oxford, Abbottstown, Fairfield and Gettysburg Have Chance at the Cup.

Speculations are running rife as to who will win the stock judging contests at the South Mountain Fair next week, since invitations have been sent to the principals of each high school of Adams county to have their schools participate in the contests.

The large silver loving cup which was presented by the Gettysburg Chamber of Commerce and the Adams County Farm Bureau will again be the prize in the competition. This cup must be won three times before it becomes the permanent property of the winner unless the annual contests are discontinued; in such case the team which has won it the greatest number of times becomes the holder.

Last year Biglerville easily captured the cup, scoring 511 points, while Littlestown was second with 357 and Arendtsville third with 353. In the first contest Littlestown won handily and Biglerville was second with Arendtsville third. Thus Biglerville and Littlestown each have a leg on the cup, and both will improve their teams and endeavor to improve their chances of getting permanent possession.

Arendtsville is eager to break into the winning class, and will put forth strong efforts to win first honors. In addition, the invitations extended may be accepted by other schools, and York Springs, East Berlin, Abbottstown, New Oxford, Fairfield and Gettysburg get an opportunity to upset the calculations of the three institutions which have competed before.

Superintendent of county schools, Professor W. Raymond Shank, has ruled that pupils who engage in an educational contest should be granted leave from classes on that day and that credit for attendance will be given. This ruling will enable pupils to enter the contest and still not be counted absent from their school.

Livestock judging teams are made up of three members. Each member individually judges the animals on exhibition. The points are then added, and the team scoring the highest wins the award. Gold and silver medals are awarded the individuals scoring highest on cattle, hogs, and on the combination of hogs and cattle. In this way, even though the team may win, the individual medals may go to other competitors.

Since, at a contest of this kind, there are frequently persons who would like to enter the ring and compete with the teams in judging the live stock, to satisfy the aspiration of these persons the management has arranged for a free-for-all contest. Any man, woman, or child may enter this contest and try their wits and skill. The prize awards for this class are reported to be worth winning.

Entries for either the free-for-all or the high school contests can be sent to the secretary, Edwin Rice, or to any director of the Fair. Proper provision will be made for the accommodations of the contestants.

Both houses, likewise, could also be used to an advantage, it is said.

Five hundred dollars additional would secure these extra necessities, according to Rev. Mr. Daniels. If the money is raised, a well will be sunk near the pool and a continuous supply of fresh running water would be available. Contractors have said they would dig such a well for approximately $300.

As the pool stands it costs $2675.75. Total amount received from collections, tag-days, movies, benefits and the like $2766.83.

Included in the expenditures are the following items: cement, $1138.54; labor, $961.20; concrete, $527.96; printing and postage, $50; water for pool one time, $24.77; sand, $75; hauling cinders, $68.60. Credits to the amount of $170.30 are taken from this amount as follows: for return of cement bags, $135.30; donation by Oyler and Brother, $28; donation by E. Shultz, $7.

ENTERS FORESTRY SCHOOL

Ralph C. Wible, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Wible, Oak Ridge, has entered the State Forestry School at Mont Alto.

THE BROWN HOUSE by Herbert Quick

"My boy, my boy!" said she, laying her hand on his arm. "If you were to die tonight, you'd die the greatest success any boy ever was—if your mother is any judge."

Jim kissed her, and went up to his attic to change his clothes. Inside the waistcoat was a worn envelope, which he carefully opened, and took from it a letter much creased from many foldings. It was the old letter from Jennie, written when the comical mistake had been made of making him the teacher of the Woodruff school. He read only the sentence in which Jennie had told of her father's interest in Jim's success, ending with the underscored words, "I'm for you, too."

"I wonder," said Jim, as he went out to do the evening's tasks. "I wonder if she is for me?"

CHAPTER XVIII

Old Man Simms Speaks.
Young McGeehee Simms was loitering along the snowy way to the schoolhouse bearing a brightly scoured tin pail two-thirds full of water. He had been allowed to act as water superintendent of the Woodruff school as a reward of merit—said merit being an essay on which he received credit in both language and geography on "Harvesting Wheat in the Tennessee Mountains." This had been of vast interest to the school in view of the fact that the Simmses were the only pupils in the school who had ever seen in use that supposedly-obsolete harvesting implement, the cradle. Buddy's essay had been passed over to the class in United States history as the evidence of an eyewitness concerning farming conditions in our grandfathers' times.

The surmised Pete, Colonel Woodruff's hired man, halted Buddy at the door.

"Mr. Simms, I believe?" he said. "I reckon you must be lookin' for my brother, Raymond, huh," said Buddy.

"I am a lookin'," said Pete impressively, "for Mr. McGeehee Simms."

"That's me," said Buddy, "but I ain't been doin' nothin' wrong, huh?"

"I have a message here," said Pete, "for Professor James E. Irwin. He's what-ho within, there, ain't he?"

"He's inside, I reckon," said Buddy. "Then will you be so kind and condescendin' as to stoop so low as to jump so high as to give him this letter?" asked Pete.

Buddy took the letter and was considering of his reply to this remarkable speech, when Pete, gravely saluting, passed on, rather congratulating himself on having staged a very good burlesque of the dignified manners of those queer mountaineers, the Simmses.

The note was from the colonel: "Please come to the meeting tonight, and when you come, come prepared to hold the district up. If we can't meet the Potawatomi county standard of wages, we ought to lose you. Everybody in the district will be there. Come late, so you won't hear yourself talked about—I should recommend nine-thirty and war-paint."

It was a crisis, no doubt of that; and the responsibility of the situation rather sickened Jim of the task of teaching. Only one thing kept him from dodging the whole issue and remaining at home—the colonel's matter-of-fact assumption that Jim had become master of the situation. How could he flee, when this old soldier was fighting so valiantly for him in the trenches? So Jim went to the meeting.

How could he impose conditions on the whole school district? How could the colonel expect such a thing of him? And how could anyone look for anything but scorn for the upstart field-hand from these men who had for so many years made him the butt of their good-natured but none the less contemptuous ridicule? Who was he, anyway, to lay down rules for these substantial and successful men—who had been for all the years of his life at their command, subservient to their demands for labor—their underlings?

The season was nearing spring, and it was a mild thawing night. The windows of the schoolhouse were filled with heads, evidencing the presence of a crowd of almost unprecedented size, and the sashes had been thrown up for ventilation and coolness. As Jim climbed the back fence of the schoolyard, he heard a burst of applause, from which he judged that some speaker had just finished his remarks. There was silence when he came alongside the window at the right of the chairman's desk, a silence broken by the voice of Old Man Simms, saying "Mistah Chairman!"

"The chair," said the voice of Ezra Bronson, "recognizes Mr. Simms."

Jim halted in indecision. He was not expected while the debate was in progress. There is no rule of manners or morals, however, forbidding eavesdropping during the proceedings of a public meeting. Therefore he listened to the first and last public speech of Old Man Simms.

"Ah ain't no speaker," said Old Man Simms, "but Ah can't set here and be quiet an' go home an' face my ole woman an' my boys an' gyhils withouten sayin' a word for the best friend any family evah had, Mr. Jim Irwin." (Applause.) Maybe Ah'll be thought forrad to speak hyah, belin' as Ah ain't no learnin' an' some may think Ah don't pay no taxes; but seein' as how we've took the Blanchard farm, a hundred an' sixty acres, for five years, an' move in a week from Sat'day, we pay taxes in our rent, Ah reckon, an' howsomever that may be, Ah've come to feel that you-all won't think hard of me if Ah speak what we-uns feel so strong about Mr. Jim Irwin?"

Old Man Simms finished this exordium with the rising inflection, which denoted a direct question as to his status in the meeting. "Go on!"

"You've got as good a right as any one!" "You're all right, old man!" Such exclamations as these came to Jim's ears with scarcely less gratefulness than to those of Old Man Simms—who stammered and went on.

"Ah thank you all kindly, Gentlemen an' ladies, when Mr. Jim Irwin found us, we was scandalous pore, an' we was wuss'n pore—we was low-down." (Cries of "No-No.")

"Yes, we was, becuz when a man gets in a new place, he's got to lift himself up to what folks does where he's come to, or he'll make a place for himself lower'n anybody else. In the mountings we was good people, becuz we done the best we could an' the best any one done; but hyah, we was low-down people becuz we hated the people that had mo' learnin', mo' land, mo' money, an' mo' friends than what we had. My little gyhils wasn't respectible in their clothes. My children was l'garned, an' triffin', but I was the most triffin' of all. Ah'll leave it to Colonel Woodruff if I was good for a plug of tobacco, or a bakin' of flour at any sto' in the county. Was I, Colonel? Wasn't I perfectly wuthless an' triffin'?"

There was a ripple of laughter, in the midst of which the colonel's voice was heard saying, "I guess you were, Mr. Simms. I guess you were, but—"

"Thankee," said Old Man Simms, as if the colonel had given a really valuable testimonial to his character. "I sho' was! Thankee kindly! An' now, what am I good for? Can't I get anything I want at the stores? Can't I get a little money at the bank, if I got to have it?"

"You're just as good as any man in the district," said the colonel. "You don't ask for more than you can pay, and you can get all you ask."

"Thankee," said Old Man Simms, (Continued Monday)

A GREAT CORN CROP

The latest monthly estimate of the United States Department of Agriculture of the probable crop yield contains at least one striking change, notes an exchange. This is the raising of the estimate of the prospective corn crop from last month by no less than 94,000 bushels. The present outlook is for a corn crop of 3,074,000,000 bushels. If that estimate is fulfilled it will mean the largest yield on record with the exception of that in 1920.

This is important not only because corn is our greatest crop, but because this great yield comes at a time when the price of corn is relatively high. The present price, around 85 cents a bushel at Chicago, compares with only 62 cents at this time a year ago.

Some idea of the relative importance of corn and wheat may be obtained by a comparison of the unofficial estimates of their values on September 1. The value of the wheat crop is placed at $699,843,000; that of the corn crop at $2,663,816,000.

Corn at Chicago is selling closer to wheat than it has for a number of years. A remark sometimes made among traders is that two bushels of corn ought to sell for the same price as one bushel of wheat. This ratio was nearly reached a year ago, when wheat sold at $1 a bushel and corn at 62 cents, while the ratio was much larger two years ago, when wheat was $1.30 and corn 54 cents. But at present a bushel of corn at 85 cents compares with a bushel of wheat $1.02.

One explanation of why corn does not get the advertising that wheat does, in spite of its much greater importance, is that only about one-fifth of the corn crop ever leaves the farms and a very negligible amount of it is exported. While one-quarter of our wheat crop figures in exports, and while most of the crop is sold on the central markets, corn is largely fed to live stock. The farmer, therefore, is less likely to think about the price of his live stock, and particularly about the price of hogs, in which form from 30 to 40 per cent of the corn crop is sold. In recent weeks hogs have gone to their highest price for the present year and are selling at a substantial advance over their price a year ago.

However unfortunate may be the position of the farmer who specializes in wheat, the latest crop estimate and the latest prices indicate that the position of farmers as a whole is by no means a hopeless one.

WHERE THE CHILDREN ARE

The houses where the children are
Have laughter through the day,
The music sweet of pattering feet
And the sounds of merry play,
The sunny skies of glistening eyes
And the countless charms of May.

The houses where the children are
Hear lullabies at night,
And round each bed the fairies tread
And the pirates come to fight,
And the blood is thrilled as each room is filled
With visions of delight.

The houses where the children are
Are seldom dull or sad;
Where children dwell there's much to tell

And much to keep you glad.
Never lonely he who keeps company
With a little girl or lad.

The houses where the children are
Need naught of earthly pride;
The wind may blow through the cracks, but Oh,
There are joy and mirth inside;
And rich are they where the children play,
For their loves are multiplied.

The houses where the children are
God's tenderest blessings know;
The rafters ring with the songs they sing
As the long days come and go,
And whatever the care, there's a welcome there
And a kiss for every blow.

Sentenced to 20 Years

FREDERICK.—One prisoner was sentenced to 20 years in the Maryland Penitentiary, one case was postponed until Tuesday and another was taken up before the court, Chief Judge Hammond Urner and Associate Judges Glenn H. Worthington and Robert B. Peter, when the criminal docket was opened Thursday. Robert W. Burns, colored, was sentenced to 20 years in the penitentiary on the charge of assault with intent to kill, and robbery. He was given 10 years on each charge, the sentences to run consecutively. The offense of which Burns was convicted was characterized as one of the boldest attempts at hold-up and murder made in this city for many years. On Saturday afternoon, May 5, Burns entered the store of J. Fred Main, West Old Saint's street, twice shot the clerk, Harry Smith, robbed the cash drawer of its contents, $16.85, and made a dash for liberty. Twenty minutes later he was captured by Sheriff Jones and Deputy Allen Bartig about two miles from this city on the Georgetown pike.

Hood Opens With Ceremony

FREDERICK.—Impressive were the ceremonies with which Hood College opened its thirty-first year Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, the exercises being held in the College Chapel. Surrounded by the staid walls of the chapel and with all the principals in the exercises clothed in academic costumes the ceremonies attendant upon the opening were performed more impressively than ever. The address was delivered by Prof. Ignatius Biorlee, principal of the Maryland State School for the Deaf. Rev. Dr. C. E. Wehler read the scripture while prayer was offered by Rev. Dr. Henri L. G. Kieffer. Dr. Jos. H. Apple, president of the college, made a number of announcements. Dr. E. L. Baker presided at the organ and Miss Lillian Baldwin had charge of the music. Singing was led by a vested choir on the stage. The welcoming remarks were made by Dr. Apple. Professor Biorlee dwelt at length upon the value of an education. "Education is that adjustment of the physically, mentally, and morally constituted human being which makes him an intelligent, useful and agreeable element of society," said Prof. Biorlee.

Ditch Digger Overcome

FREDERICK.—Jesse Marshall, about 20, was overcome by gas shortly after 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon while at work in the ditch at the intersection of East Second and Market streets. Dr. F. H. Hodges was called and Marshall was soon revived. Marshall, who resides in the county, remained at work.

Plan Noon Hour Services

HAGERSTOWN.—Tentative plans for noon-time services in factories and industrial centers were discussed at a meeting of the religious work committee of the Y. M. C. A., with Mrs. C. E. Magruder, the chairman, presiding. The idea of short noon-time devotional services was started in New York, at Old Trinity church, in the heart of the business district. Crowds of business men and women attend religious services at Trinity during the noon hour. While Hagerstown hasn't any "Old Trinity" or Wall street, the Y. M. C. A. committee plans to have the services conducted at the manufacturing plants if possible, and will visit managers to take the matters up with them. It is hoped to start the noon-day meetings in November.

Hurt When Autos Crash

HAGERSTOWN.—Albert Sneckenberger, this city, suffered injuries to his leg and body recently when the automobile in which he was riding on East Franklin street, was in collision with the automobile of John Dean, colored. Sneckenberger is said by witnesses to have turned sharply before Dean could get out of the way. His car was thrown across the street and badly damaged. Sneckenberger was taken to the Washington County Hospital for treatment.

Drunk Driver, Fined $103
HAGERSTOWN.—A fine of $103 and costs was imposed upon Tice Bruner, Cavetown, who was found guilty of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor by Justice Bitner in the Police Court. Bruner was arrested by Patrolman Sailes who testified that Bruner had narrowly escaped striking several people with his machine.

To Open G. O. P. Headquarters
HAGERSTOWN.—Republican headquarters will be opened next Monday in the rooms on the first floor of the Hagerstown Hotel Company building, southwest corner of Public Square, formerly occupied by the Royal Woolen Mills Company. The rooms will be fitted up attractively and someone will be placed in charge of the headquarters during the coming campaign.

Franklin

Will Supply Bride and Groom
WAYNESBORO.—"I think we can gather together a list of gifts that will give the lucky bride and groom a splendid start on their trip across the Sea of Matrimony on Farmers' Day," said Secretary Chilton of the Chamber of Commerce, in discussing the proposed free wedding to be staged on Farmers' Day as another big added attraction of more than ordinary interest. Speaking on the manner of selecting the couple to be married if more than one bride and groom present themselves to the committee, Mr. Chilton stated that he believed it might be best to decide the fortunate couple from the number early in the afternoon. They could then be taken to Chambersburg and the license secured after which the return trip to Waynesboro and all last minute preparations for the event made by the couple, assisted by the committee in every way possible.

To Encourage Better Fowls
WAYNESBORO.—The Citizens National Bank has a campaign on for getting new depositors which is attracting much attention and which is creating a strong interest among those taking part in it. In order to encourage better poultry in this vicinity, monthly prizes consisting of first class pure bred poultry will be given to persons who send or bring into the bank the greatest number of new depositors. The contest started September 1 and the prize for this month will be the Ancona type which is considered the best known layers. There are two pullets and one cockerel in the lot. A different kind of pure bred poultry will be given away each month. Persons coming in second or third in the contest can retain their credits and apply them in succeeding months. The purpose is to give all an opportunity to get some of this pure bred poultry during some month. If sufficient interest is shown, pens of three or four will be given each month, coming from the best breeders.

Wet and Dry Issue Up
WAYNESBORO.—The wet and dry issue in Franklin county was shown up in fine state Tuesday in the candidacies of Lester H. Huber and C. J. Reeder for Republican nomination as sheriff. Mr. Huber won the nomination in grand style, his majority over Reeder being several times more than the total number of votes cast for the defeated candidate according to unofficial returns. Reeder announced himself as a "wet" candidate although it is hard to understand just where his office would have anything to do with changing the law, the sheriff usually being considered as a man whose job is to enforce existing laws and maintain order. Deputy Sheriff successfully ran on a platform of past efficient service as deputy to both Sheriff Horst and Sheriff Mayer and the stated pledge that he would carry out the regular duties of the office to the best of his ability in the future should he be elected.

HOW LIVE TO BE
100 YEARS OLDMental Development of Children
Also to be Shown at Dairy Exposition.

How live to be 100?
How insure the greatest mental development of our children?
These two questions, both of prime importance and interest to every man or woman because everyone looks forward to a ripe, old age cheered by a group of healthy, intelligent children and grandchildren, will be answered in the great human welfare display being prepared for the National Dairy exposition which will be held for the first time this year in New York state at Syracuse, October 5-13, says County Farm Agent R. E. Underwood. He goes on to say that an abundant use of milk is the most important factor in the schedule of diet, exercise and study which rounds out health, longevity and a keen brain, the exhibit will show. The display will explain clearly and concisely how everyone can attain the best mental and physical results in life by a well-rounded program, with a plentiful use of nature's greatest food—milk. Physicians and research specialists of note have recently discovered that milk contains sugars of great importance to brain development in children, whose brains grow very rapidly and need lots of the sugar supplied in them to insure the healthiest and strongest brain growth. This new discovery is of tremendous importance to mothers and fathers and will be outlined in detail in the exhibit.

Dr. Rutger of Yale university makes the statement there are a large number of people of 100 or more years of age in countries where sweet and sour milk is chief article of diet or where it is used in large quantities. There are few people who attain this age, he says, where consumption of milk is not so great.

Dr. Rutger believes that a certain kind of bacteria flourishes in the alimentary canal when a quantity of milk is consumed and that these bacteria prevent development of poisons which are normally thrown into the system from the canal and are thus responsible for premature old age. A display in the exhibit will show this theory in detail and will, officials believe, prove of interest and value to city residents.

Visitors to the exposition will also have an opportunity to see the world's finest dairy cattle. There will be 1-200 purebred cattle worth $3,000,000. Huge buildings filled with machinery and equipment will show how milk is brought from the farm to the home through many cooling, cleaning and sanitary measures, how cheese and butter is made and other features.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving remembrance of our dear husband and father, James S. Currens, who departed this life nine years ago today, September 23, 1914. Just a thought of sweet remembrance, Just a memory fond and true, Just the love and sweet devotion Of the ones who think of you.

My heart has been crushed and wounded, My life has been lonely and sad, But if I could only look on your dear face, It would make me contented and glad.

Your well remembered footsteps I listen for in vain, And my eyes grow dim watching and my heart with pain.

When the evening shades are gathering, And we are sitting all alone, In our hearts there comes a longing, If you could only come home.

One by one earth's ties are broken, As we see our love decay; And the hopes so fondly cherished Brieten, but to pass away.

One by one our hopes grow brighter, As we near the shining shore; For we know across the river Wait the loved ones gone before.

And when at last beyond the stars, The night shall have unlocked the bars, Then as we meet by angel's side, We will in God's love forever abide.

By his wife and children.

Wanted—Bare and Naked Houses

That We Can Help Home-Loving Men And Women to

Turn Into Beautiful Homes

The home is the hall-mark of civilized man, and every home tells the story of the lives of those who live in it. There is the cold and careless home, also the equally cold conventional home that may be filled with costly furnishings.

But the REAL HOME is the one where each partner in it took joy in each piece of the furnishings—where each is eager for something new—something to add more cheerful beauty, more restful comfort—more satisfaction and happiness for the whole family.

It is with a sympathetic realization of all these things that we have gone to every source of supply during the recent months to gather here these delightful collections of EVERYTHING THAT RIGHT HOMES NEED, in the way of floor coverings of every character—draperies, hangers, etc.

We have the furnishings that are wanted—we have the knowledge and experience to help in best selections and to do all the necessary work of putting these things into the homes.

RECALLS OLD TALE OF "EDDIE" PLANK

Clipping of Paper in 1899 Tells of One of First Games Played by Him.

"Eddie" Plank, famous baseball player native to Gettysburg and Adams county, has an arm that is still as good for a "hot one" over the plate as many a young pitcher, as was evidenced in an exhibition game "Eddie" played in Harrisburg a few weeks ago.

The event reminded one of the subscribers of The Times of a clipping in his possession, taken from a York paper on July 22, 1899, and which is herewith reprinted as describing a game pitched by Plank for the Gettysburg team on July 21, 1899. It read as follows:

A MIGHTY BASEBALL PITCHER
Plank, the Gettysburg Twirler, Struck Out Sixteen Local Players.

Edward Plank, a youth just fresh from an Adams county farm and who but recently aspired to become a baseball pitcher, came to York yesterday to twirl the sphere for the Gettysburg club in a game with Manager Webel's Athletics on the local ball field. The newspapers in this vicinity, as well as those in some of the large cities, have of late been telling stories of young Plank's remarkable pitching abilities and the easy manner in which he disposed of the hard hitting Athletics in the game yesterday is positive proof that the people and the newspapers who speak of him as being mighty did not go wrong in their assertions. The several hundred local enthusiasts who saw him work yesterday are convinced that he is a wonder—about the warmest manipulator of a baseball ever seen in York.

A summary of the game, that is during the time the visitors occupied the field, serves to show exactly how much ability this pitcher has. In all but three innings the Athletics were retired in one, two, three order, and in two out of the other three innings only one reached first base in each inning, and but one Athletic player was left on base. Of the twenty-nine batsmen who faced Plank only one reached third base and only two reached second base. Three hits, two of which were scratches, were all the home club secured. There was only one fly to the outfield. Sixteen of the twenty-nine were retired on strikes, one was given his base on balls, one was hit by a pitched ball and the remainder were retired by the infielders with the exception of the one fly to the outfield.

Barring the ninth inning the game was an exceptionally good one. Dugan pitched good ball and although he was not quite as effective as his opponent the visitors found him hard to hit and the few runs scored in the eight innings were mainly due to errors by his support. In the last inning, however, Dugan lost all control, went away in the air and was pounded for eleven safe hits, which netted the visitors ten runs, making the final score 16 to 0.

The fielding of the visitors was perfect, but this is probably accounted for by the fact that few chances were offered them. The batting of Tate, Wolf and Sheely and some clever base running by Dill were other features of the game.

The visitors played a gentlemanly game and were full of ginger throughout the contest. The score by innings follows:

Athletics, of York, Badly Beaten
York, Pa., July 22 (Special).—The Gettysburg Base Ball team gave the Athletics a bad defeat today. Plank, of the visiting team, struck out sixteen men. The game was very pretty up until the last inning. The score:
